

INTRODUCTION

Most of us have preconceived notions about Physical Security in our organizations. We watch the daily news. We hear the “war stories” about robberies. We’ve seen the “Hollywood” versions.

Today, we’re going to look at Physical Security in the world we actually live and work in, and from a little different perspective. We’re going to look at the FDIC regulation that is the foundation for what we have to do. We’re going to consider the possibilities of what we can do

Our presenter is uniquely qualified to bring us this presentation. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia, a former Vice President of an Independent Community bank, a bank security officer, and a man with more than twenty-five years experience in training banking professionals all across the country.

His presentation will change the way you see physical security. It will inspire you, shock you and maybe even make you smile, but for certain, it will make you think. The goal for this session is to have you take a good hard look at what you are doing and compare that with the possibilities of what you can do. His presentation is specifically designed to make sure you are maintaining compliance with the Federal guidelines.

I know you’ll enjoy the time spent with Charles Williams and if you aren’t careful, you just might learn something!

So let’s welcome him to the platform.

Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Charles Williams.
